

Legacies as Defined by Each NPC Sorority at Auburn

This list explains which women are considered true legacies. Other relationships may be listed on the registration form because the sorority will want to know if there is a special relationship. Each sorority has its own policy about true legacies in recruitment. Many of those policies are private. If you are a sorority member, you may contact your sorority's general headquarters to learn about your sorority's policy. When a potential member reports a sorority relationship on your registration, only that sorority can see it.
